The joint Egyptian-German archeological mission under Daniel Boltz, Director of the German Institute of Archaeology, unearthed the base of the first pyramid ever discovered at the Western Bank in Luxor. The find is considered the most important remains discovered so far due to the importance of its builder, King Nub-Khbar-Ra, the first one who led the liberation war against the Hyksos in Egypt. [...] King Nub is the grandfather of King Saknen-Ra, who was killed in the battles against the Hyksos, and the great grandfather of Ahmose...
